FROM THE PRESIDENT

Well, Brothers and Sisters, we are less than 60 days to the 2016 reunion; if you haven't made your reservations, please do so as soon as possible. 2016 has been quite a year; the Vietnam Welcome Home event held at the Fort Worth Naval Air Station went well and I was fortunate enough to win a ride in a P51 Mustang (what a ride it was). The first night of the event that was all Nam vets went very well but the next two days were overshadowed by the Blue Angels Air Show leaving the Vietnam exhibit somewhat abandoned and empty.

I was able to meet with five 39th vets I served with from Charlie Co. in Milwaukee, WI in June; it was like a mini reunion. Some were already members and now all are members of the Association. Funny how you can remember faces from back then but names have a habit of slipping away; but after a few beers all the memories and stupid things we did come back in vivid color. We had a good time during those two days going down memory lane and I would like to thank Dave Hazleberg and Terry Rossiter for getting us together. Hopefully, we will be able to have them attend one of our upcoming reunions. Of course, we had the tragedy in Dallas July 7th when 5 Dallas police officers were ambushed by a sniper; that will be something that only time will heal.

The 39th has deployed to Baghdad and at last report will be there for an 8-month tour. Haven't had any reports of their missions as of yet but when I do receive information, I will be sure and pass it on.

We have lost three more members: John "Frenchy" Evans, C Co. 67-68 passed on July 9, 2014. Howard R. Waugh, 39th WWII passed on March 18, 2016. Otis Rowland, HHC & A Co. 65-66 passed on March 19, 2016. Obituaries are located elsewhere in the newsletter.

Our membership is still growing although at a somewhat slower pace, but it is so good to talk with you guys when you find us. There is one special request - please let me know if you move, change phone numbers, etc. so that corrections can be made to the roster (this is the only way we have to stay in touch and keep you informed). We are still hoping that some of the 39th who served at Fort Devens will join us and help fill in the blanks from that part of our history; if you know any of these guys please tell them about us.

Now for a big "Blue Bull Welcome" to our new members and Lifetime members.

VICE PRES REPORT

Brothers and Sisters of the 39th Combat Engineer Battalion,

Here we are on the brink of another year almost gone and another reunion is almost here. Shirley and I are very excited to see everyone again. Our reunions always seem to go by so quickly but nowadays the rest of the year seems to pass pretty quickly also. I guess that has to do with age and the fact that we think that it should be slowing down instead of speeding up.

Speaking of age, I turned 70 this past January and my eyes decided to start acting up. I went to my optometrist thinking that I needed new glasses and learned I had cataracts. So for the last few weeks I have been dealing with eye surgeries. I'm sure some of you have been in the same boat or will one of these days. Point being my brothers, we are not getting any younger. Many of us have already passed into the next life, hopefully with the Lord Jesus Christ. Don't say, well I'll go next year because it's too far to drive or fly. Or I just don't have the money. I know sometimes it's a little tough. Just remember we never know when the Lord will bring us home. Come on out to Dallas my brothers and sisters, and let's plan on a great time together.

Now, a special note to the sisters of the 39th. If your combat Vet and our brother has passed on you are still our sister. We still love you as we did when our brother was here. Please come and join us. Looking forward to seeing everyone in Dallas (Plano) Texas. Brothers Then, Brothers Now

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Just wanted folks to know that I will be in Arizona this month to be again re-certified as a Veterans Service Officer.

If members have any questions regarding what, if any, benefits they can apply for, I would be happy to speak with anyone in private at our reunion. Advice is based upon my experience in Indiana. Variations may occur in state.

Agent Orange is always a factor but there are many presumptives, i.e. diabetes, and certain forms of cancer. It is ALWAYS best to have a CERTIFIED VSO file ALL your claims to avoid any pitfalls that may put your claim into question or subject it to further review.

Reviews and rejections are usually due to lack of proper and complete documentation.

Looking forward to seeing y'all at the reunion!

CHAPLAIN'S WORDS

ELECTION YEAR!

It was some time ago that I was told a wonderful story about a man who had a vision of Heaven and Hell, and was told he had to decide which one he wanted to go to after death. You'd think that this decision would be easy to make because of all we have read and heard about these two places. However, God grants this person first-hand knowledge of both places in order for him to make an informed decision, and the story goes like this. Just for the story I will call him Charles.

Charles was getting ready for bed one night and while he was slipping under the covers, he heard a voice saying "Charles, this is God and this year you can choose where you want to go." Shocked and frightened, Charles responds: "Is this you God?" God answers, "Yes." "What do I have to do?" said Charles. "St. Peter will take you to the two places and you can make up your mind after that." Charles responds, "Okay."

At that instant Charles' bedroom was filled with a bright white light. Charles was almost blinded by the light, but he could see that something was within the light. He squinted to see what was in front of him, and behold it was an elevator with St. Peter waving for him to get in. The doors closed and it went down in a flash to Hell. As the doors opened, Charles found himself on the first tee of a beautiful golf course with his longtime friends ready to play golf.

What a shock to see his friends in such a great place playing golf and drinking beer along the way. He played two rounds with his friends and at the end of the eighteenth hole, in the distance he saw a very large and magnificent Clubhouse. So Charles, along with his friends, entered the Clubhouse and was greeted by Satan himself. Satan told them that they could eat and drink whatever they wanted from the bounty that was presented to them in the dining room. Charles was amazed at all the fine food and drinks he had access to. The dinner with his friends lasted all day and the party went on until St. Peter descended to Hell in the elevator. St. Peter told him it was time to go up to Heaven to see what it is like, and having his fill of Hell, they left.

When the elevator doors closed, Charles could feel the elevator going in a speedy upward direction. Then, within a few seconds, the elevator stopped, and the doors opened in Heaven. The air was sweet smelling and it was a beautiful sunny day with the birds singing and flying around with no cares in the world. St. Peter introduced Charles to a few people and others came up to him wishing him well and good tidings.

As Charles walked around Heaven, others introduced themselves to him with wonderful words of exultation. In his wildest dreams, he could have never thought that a place like this existed. All the stories and Bible passages were right, he thought to himself, sheer ecstasy. However, he missed his friends and the fun they had playing golf, drinking, and eating such sumptuous foods. So he thought, "Here in Heaven, it is so serene and calming, and you can feel the love that all have for each other. But to think that this was going to be forever, this would be a problem." The fun he had with his friends in Hell drove him to choose Hell as his permanent place of residence after his death.

Finally, the elevator appeared with God and St. Peter waiting for him. God asked him a few times if he had made up his mind, and he responded with an emphatic "Yes!" So down they went to Hell, but this time he could smell a horrible odor of sulfur and it started to get very hot. When the doors opened, he heard screaming and yelling coming from all around him. Satan greeted him with a welcoming smile, and took him by the hand. However, before Satan could do anything, Charles stopped abruptly and with fear and trepidation, he asked Satan, "What happened to the place I visited a little while ago?" Satan replied, "Did you forget that this year is an election year?"

My brothers and sisters, let us not forget that Satan will use whatever he can to steer us away from seeing the truth about something. So do not fall for what looks so good to be true and follow what seems to be real. Why? Because you are only going after what will, in the end, turn out to be "fool's gold."

Have a blessed day!

FLYING IN?

There are 2 airports that serve the Dallas Fort Worth area - DFW and Love. Both are a distance from our reunion headquarters, and the hotel does not provide an airport shuttle.

For those who are not renting a car, here is the info on the shuttle services available. Super Shuttle is the most used and has a very competitive rate. You can contact them on line at www.supershuttle.com or by phone at 972-615-2410. Another source is www.airportshuttles.com which offers a variety of options to choose from. For those who are familiar with UBER, this too, is an option. If all else fails, please contact me and I will try to help make transportation arrangements.

A FELLOW 39THER REMEMBERS . . .

Due to the length of this history, only a portion is being reproduced in this newsletter. In order to see the entire history, we will have a few copies at the Reunion. As well, the entire copy will be available online on the 39th Engineer website.

39th Engineer Battalion History Summer 1964 to Oct 1965 and then deployment to Viet Nam Nov. 1965.

In the summer of 1964 I arrived at Fort Campbell. That is where my knowledge of the history of the 39th begins.

The 39th Engineer Battalion Combat

At the time it was commanded by a Lt. Col. Johnson. I learned later that he was ultimately promoted to general. About the end of June, Lt. Col. Earnest E. Lane took over the command of the 39th. Colonel Lane was a West Point graduate and very professional and also very likable.

The 39th was one of 3 combat engineer battalions and 3 separate companies that made up the 937 Engineer Group commanded by a Colonel Loesing (sp). The group had the 27 Engineer Battalion Combat, the 70 Engineer Battalion Combat along with the 39 Engineer Battalion Combat. We also had three individual companies. The 553 Float Bridge, the 511 Foot Bridge and the 597 Engineer Maintenance Company. I do not remember if the 572 Light Equipment Co. was part of the group then or not. The 39th was housed in old wooden barracks about one mile from the main gate.

1. Trained our own AIT (summer of 1964).

The battalion was in the process of training 300 candidates for their advanced individual training (AIT) in June of 1964. I was assigned to C Company commanded by Lt. Bob Greer. This was not a normal event for a line combat engineer battalion, but it was pretty successful I believe considering we were not set up to do this. I went to the field for 3 weeks immediately. All types of training were being conducted mainly by the NCO's from within the 937 Engineer Group and the two bridge companies. The training that went on while I was in the field with them consisted of everything from bridge building to convoy ambush (offense and defense) and night assault defense.

They had already been involved with the other parts of AIT training before I got there. The graduates were assigned to the three combat engineer battalions, and the separate companies within the group. The group strength was down somewhat, so the boost in troop level was necessary. B Company was TDY to Alaska during all of this. I don't know exactly what their job was while there. They supposedly were providing construction support to the Arctic Test Board. They returned to Ft. Campbell later in the fall of 1964.

Fast forward to . . .

9. In Country

Immediately after getting our equipment, B Company deployed to Tuy Hoa along with most of the heavy equipment platoon from HQ. We moved most of the equipment on LST's that just happened to be parked right in front of our area. So that training at Little Creek paid off pretty quickly. A and C Companies started working on concrete pads for the hospital at the air base and also some fuel storage tanks right there at Cam Ranh.

"A" Company was involved in building the longest tactical bridge in Viet Nam. The trip from the Cam Ranh peninsula over to the mainland had been done with barges ever since the buildup was started. It was slow and tedious and really kept construction growth to a minimum. The bridge really opened up the traffic to the peninsula. It was over 1100 feet long and was made of M4T6 float

Floating Bridge

Nha Trang for beer. We brought back more than beer. We had three truckloads of troops going with us. Doc McDonald said 85% brought back gonorrhoea. Not sure how that happened in that short amount of time while I bought the beer at the air base.

We set up our battalion maintenance tent as a beer hall for the enlisted men. There was a shed on top of a hill that was called the officers club. The mess halls were screened in buildings with metal roofs. We were located right on the beach. It was a beautiful setting. We got some wing tanks from the air force and filled them with water and pressurized them and used them to feed water to our ice maker we bought back in the states with unit fund money.

We got some tanks the navy used as floats to mark off an area of water and made showers from them. The showers were right on the beach also.

We had a volley ball court and a movie screen on the beach. We had purchased an anamorphic lens (unit fund) for cinematic movies. We used to hit the ships as they came into port to get the best movies we could get. We also had a guard tower like a life guard tower on the beach. We would put an armed guard there to shoot sharks should the need arise. Cam Ranh Bay supposedly was the largest shark breeding ground in Southeast Asia.

Bn Area from Dune

The mission in Tuy Hoa was two-fold. We were supposed to support the 1st Brigade of the 101st Division and also work on the initial enlargement of the small civilian airfield there. Air Viet Nam flew some DC-3's out of there. We got a plane load of rolls of rubber one day. It was the same rubber we had used at Ft. Campbell back in the summer. This time we used it to make the tarmac area and used PSP to make the runway larger. Good thing we knew how to use it. We were told the rush to get Tuy Hoa up and running was to get the area secured. It supposedly had a large rice crop there and they did not want the VC to get it. The 101st and one brigade of the Korean Tiger Division were there to hold the area and protect the rice crop. The VC were active at night and would hit the outside perimeter bridge material. I believe the float bridge was from a Vietnamese unit with advisors from the 553 Float Bridge Company. It was written up in the Stars and Stripes. It only took a few days to complete. The first weekend we had our equipment, we outfitted a duce and a half with a 50 cal. ring mount and took off to manned by the Koreans pretty regularly. Some of the heavy equipment was lightly damaged on one attack while out with the 101st working a road beside a rice paddy. Our guys were told not to bring weapons because the 101st would take care of everything. I told my troops not to listen to them anymore. If you go out, take a weapon. On one of the trips to Tuy Hoa, Col. Lane decided to do a little recon on the way back to Cam Ranh. They were flying low in a Huey and took some fire. He was the only one hit. He was taken to Nha Trang immediately where he died from blood loss that night. That was a pretty severe blow to the battalion personnel. Col. Lane was a very popular commander among everyone that worked with him. Major Schultz took over as CO of the 39th. I was told he was a battle field promotion back in WWII. He was pretty rough around the edges, but very colorful and pretty sharp.

One of the projects the 39th worked on at Tuy Hoa was building a port that could be used to off load small ships to supply the area. It was a few miles south of the main part of Tuy Hoa. The port was named Port Lane after Col. Lane.

I departed Viet Nam and only have spotty information on what happened after that. In 1971 while on a business trip to Atlanta, I boarded a plane for home in Charlotte, NC. I heard a voice I recognized. It was Lt. Coulter the CO of A Company. We got together on that flight and planned an officer reunion. We were able to get about 10 officers together for a reunion in Gatlinburg, Tenn. We said we would do it every 5 years but were not able to keep it going. I have only seen one of the guys since then.
